THE CUBAN TREATY.

President's Message to the Extra Session of Congress.

He Urges Its Ratification and Deems Such Legislation is Demanded, Not Only By Our Interests, But By Our Honor.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The following message of the president was sent to the congress Tuesday:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I have convened the congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba, which was ratified by the senate at its last session and subsequently by the Cuban government. It is deemed such legislation demanded not only by our interest but by our honor. We cannot with propriety abandon the course upon which we have wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment, which required from Cuba by the action of congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position as regards this country.

It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relation to us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy; and it necessarily follows that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy. Situated as Cuba is, it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic value of the island to be lost to any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy and that naval stations have been conceded by her to the United States. The negotiations as to the details of these naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba, but otherwise they are for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes, and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the waters south of us.

These interests have been largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain, and will be still further increased by the building of the isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations alluded to is of the utmost importance from a military standpoint, and is proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made great progress since her independence was established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She already stands high among the sister republics of the new world. She is loyally fulfilling her obligations to us, and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as those given to Cuba. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because it is capable of expansion, and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be to our disadvantage for us to refuse to take advantage of such opportunity and to force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on consideration of broad national policy as well as by our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because it is capable of expansion, and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be to our disadvantage for us to refuse to take advantage of such opportunity and to force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

MINERS OUT ON STRIKE.

More Than 10,000 in Colorado Struck Monday.

The Mine Owners Are Making Efforts to Continue Operations Under the Protection of a Guard—Trouble Will Likely Result.

Denver, Col., Nov. 10.—More than 10,000 national miners in Colorado went on strike Monday for an eight-hour day, increased wages and other concessions. The strike was ordered by the national officers of the United Mine Workers of America after the coal companies refused to confer with union representatives concerning the demands of the men. Of the idle men, 6,900 are in the southern coal fields; 2,900 in the northern coal fields and 1,800 in Fremont county. One hundred mines have been closed. A few independent properties in the northern coal fields and elsewhere will not stop work, since the operators have granted an eight-hour day and an increase in wages. More than 1,000 miners will remain at work according to reports from the affected regions. The announcement comes that 800 men have gone out in Colfax county. The other miners in that territory are negotiating with the mine owners.

The Colorado Fuel and Iron, the Victor Fuel and the Northern Coal and Cokes Cos. are the largest producers. Nearly all of their property has been tied up by the action of the miners. However, they are making efforts to continue operations under the protection of a strong guard. There are about 140 coal miners in Colorado with an output of some 8,000,000 tons of coal and about 1,000,000 tons of coke a year.

It will be the policy of the United Mine Workers to depopulate the various fields by sending the idle men and their families to Illinois, Indian territory, Missouri, Iowa and other states, where work can be secured for them. Some 5,000 tickets to these states have already been arranged for by the mine workers, and Monday hundreds of the strikers started to new fields. D. C. Evans, member of the executive board of the national organization, Indiana, is now in Trinidad to handle the financial end of the strike. Other members of the executive board are in Colorado and will have charge of the campaign during the struggle, one being stationed in the centers of each strike field. Residents of Denver and other cities found it impossible Monday to secure a ton of coal for immediate delivery. The supply of lignite coal is exhausted, and companies having other kinds of coal, booked orders for not more than one ton, subject to two weeks delay in delivery.

The railroad companies say that they have enough coal stored to meet all their requirements for some time. State militia is held in readiness to be dispatched to the coal regions at the first call from the sheriffs of the counties affected.

GERMANIC MUSEUM.

Collection Sent by Emperor William Presented to Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—In the presence of a select gathering of distinguished scholars and others who take a deep interest in matters of an educational nature, the Germanic museum at Harvard was formally opened Tuesday and the collections sent to it by Emperor William of Germany formally presented. The announcement of these gifts was made by Prince Henry during his visit to this country in March, 1902.

The exercises in the new lecture hall began at 3 o'clock. Upon the platform were Prof. H. C. G. von Jagemann, the presiding officer; Baron von Dem Busche-Haddenhausen, counselor of legation, and first secretary of the German embassy in Washington, representing the German ambassador; President Charles W. Eliot, Prof. Kuno Francis, curator of the Germanic museum association.

The address of Baron von Dem Busche-Haddenhausen was of particular interest, for besides presenting the emperor's collection, he announced that a number of German scholars, officials and men of affairs had prepared a reproduction of German silver and gold work, which is to be given to the museum and also that Prof. A. C. Coolidge, of the historic department at Harvard, had given the university a library of ten thousand volumes on German history.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—An exhibition was opened Tuesday at the museum of industrial art of the objects to be presented to Harvard's Germanic museum as supplemental to Emperor William's gifts. The contributions is the result of the efforts of Prof. Kuno Francis, of Harvard university, in initiating German artists, scientists and capitalists in the Germanic museum, as a means of displaying the fatherland's art treasures in the United States and strengthening the ties between the two countries.

It was decided to select the goldsmith's work of the 12th to the 17th centuries for illustration and imitation of 55 cups of various designs, basins and dishes, were made by an electroplating process to come to the gift. The articles chiefly are from the work of Nuremberg and Augsburg goldsmiths of the period when this art was at maturity. Many of these objects now are in possession of princely houses, municipalities and museums.

Emperor William has permitted the reproduction of several of the finest pieces in his collection, including the so-called emperor's cup of the 16th century, by Wenzel Jamnitzer, of Nuremberg. The kings of Wurttemberg and Saxony also have permitted copies to be made of some of their treasures. The largest group consisted of 16 pieces from the townhall of Luebeck, now in possession of the Berlin museum. Among the famous pieces are the so-called Laidschadenlund cup, from the museum of Graz, the Luther cup, presented to the reformer upon his marriage, by the Wittenberg town council; and the Corvinus cup, which King Corvinus of Hungary presented to the Vienna council in 1462.

The reproductions are so successful that an expert scarcely can detect the difference from the originals. The collection will remain on exhibition here for a week and will be sent to Harvard in a fortnight.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.—At the conclusion of a conference between capitalists representing Widener-Elkins interests and Maj. George M. Derby, United States engineer for this district, it was announced that the plan for harnessing the falls of the Ohio to generate power for a vast plant would be favorably recommended to the war department. The project for utilizing the great water power has been under consideration for some time. It was necessary, however, to first secure the consent of the war department to the plan and to demonstrate that navigation and certain riparian rights maintained by the government would not be interfered with.

Among those present at the conference were: Prof. Duls Duncan, president of the school of electrical engineering, Boston school of technology; John Birkinbine, Philadelphia engineer, said to represent the United Gas Improvement Co.; W. Kelsey Schoepf, Cincinnati, president of the Cincinnati Traction Co.; Maj. George M. Derby, United States engineer; F. A. Joss, attorney, Indianapolis; Benetzette Williams, Chicago engineer.

Derby at the conference Tuesday, and after the meeting broke up it was announced that Maj. Derby would give a partial endorsement of them to the war department. Beyond this no information was given by those concerned.

It was learned, however, that if the final consent of the government is secured the capitalists will spend about $2,000,000 for their initial power plant, which will be of sufficient size to furnish electrical power and light. Not only to Louisville, but to traction lines and towns within a wide radius, covering part of Southern Indiana and Northern Kentucky. He wished to win the pole for America because it was the last geographical prize the world had to offer and it was peculiarly an object of American pride and patriotism. America was now negotiating for the Isthmus of Panama. The other natural and logical boundary to her destiny was the north pole. He hoped by winning the pole for his country to appropriately crown her four centuries of struggle, heroism and achievement.
